CMS OPEN PAYMENTS DATA So what is it good for?

Presented by
Isha Arora
Horizon Pharma

Now that we have several years of reporting under our belts, there is a wealth of information in the Federal CMS Data available to the public in the Open Payments System. The data continues to grow and evolve. So the question becomes, now that we have it, what is it good for?

Industry expert Isha Arora understands how compliance analytics allows for the opportunity to identify and mitigate issues proactively. By applying critical thinking to the analytics, Ms. Arora will review aspects of the data using real-life examples to explore what the data reveals and ultimately how it can help drive better business decisions.

By “keeping it simple”, workshop attendees will see examples of how manufacturers can use their own Open Payments data to monitor internal compliance and gain business intelligence. Discussion will also include the rewards and risks of mining Open Payments data, what to look for and what to avoid when using the data within your own organization.
