Calling all Early Birds: Discounted Pricing on Registration Ends Soon!

While our October Sharing Conference™ may still seem far away, the expiration date on early bird savings is right around the corner!

Monday, August 20th is the last day for early bird rates. After that, the price goes up to $3200.

And speaking of savings, here's another offer: when three industry participants from the same pharmaceutical/medical device/biotech company register for the Sharing Conference, one additional colleague may attend for FREE.

We're especially proud this year to have government officials from OIG, CMS, DEA and FDA leading our general sessions. And with more than 24 educational workshops and speed sessions, you'll have plenty of options for learning and sharing. Plus we're featuring an exhibit hall filled with vendor partners offering unparalleled expertise on a wide variety of compliance challenges.

So before you miss the early bird, take look at our agenda and register today!

If you are already registered, please share this email with a colleague and take advantage of the team discount offer. Not sure who's registered from your company? Email mail@sharingalliance.org to find out.

Our vendor partners have a valued role both in the exhibit hall and in learning and networking sessions throughout the conference. If your company offers product and service solutions to the life science compliance industry, a few spots in the exhibit hall are still available. Visit the Exhibitor section for more info.
