WORKSHOP ANNOUNCEMENT:

“Send Lawyers, Guns (not really) and Money” or ... How Can We Minimize Compliance Lawsuits?

Presented by Alan Minsk, Sharing Alliance Counsel and Partner, and Head of Food and Drug Team, Arnall Golden Gregory, LLP

Life science companies face increasing scrutiny from federal and state regulatory agencies concerning business practices, such as those associated with marketing and quality-related issues. The Food and Drug Administration, the Justice Department, the Office of the Inspector General of the Department of Health and Human Services, and state authorities continue to investigate pharmaceutical and medical device companies for compliance with applicable laws. Failure to comply can have serious negative consequences, whether non-approval of a product, a Warning Letter, issuance of import alerts, court action, or the imposition of hefty fines, to name only a few.

In this informative session, we will review types of non-compliance issues that could raise litigation risk. We will discuss typical litigation-type consequences for non-compliance and recommendations to minimize such risk.
