One-Stop-Shop Sharing Conference for all your Compliance Needs!

Time is running out to register for the annual Sharing Conference, where compliance and commercial operations professionals come to get a unique blend of educational information and real-world solutions to everyday challenges.

You'll hear from key Government agencies – FDA, CMS and DEA - presenting on federal regulations and offering information critical to meeting your compliance challenges.

You'll interact with industry and business experts presenting on their own experiences and sharing best practices that help ensure a safe and secure supply chain for pharmaceuticals, biotech products and medical devices, free from the potential for fraud and abuse.

In addition to a jam-packed agenda showcasing 14 workshops and 4 general sessions, and a keynote speaker that will have you extra glad you came, the conference also offers a number of Open Forum discussions set for sharing in a casual setting. Attendees are invited to pose their own questions, hear concerns of others, and join in open discussions on challenges posed and solutions found.

We will also feature an exhibit hall filled with access to the latest product and service innovations from state-of-the-art solution providers and attendees will have dedicated time to visit and learn from these experts with the educational goal of bringing back knowledge and resources to share with their office colleagues.

Register this week while early bird rates are still in effect. When three industry attendees from the same company register, a fourth team member may attend for free – email mail@sharingalliance.org for more info. Paid conference registration also initiates free annual membership in The Sharing Alliance,™ the not-for-profit organization that sponsors the conference each year and is dedicated to the ongoing education of its members on compliance best practices.
