PRE-CON WORKSHOP ANNOUNCEMENT

Perfecting the Drug Sample Supply Chain

Drug sampling is the first step in medication adherence for many patients. The interpersonal dynamics and information exchange around drug sampling provides great benefits to patients, prescribers, and pharma. Yet, prescriber access to drug samples in Health Systems has eroded in large part because Health System leadership has enterprise compliance and operational needs that are unmet.

Hal Walsh, SymmetryRx and Angela Dyer, HCA Healthcare will discuss supply chain gaps contributing to prescriber loss of access to drug samples for their patients. In addition, these industry experts will look at data illustrating the gaps in sample effectiveness insights that may be contributing to the under and over-allocation of samples. They will also discuss emerging technology to assure the availability of drug samples to patients of prescribers who use them in their practice of medicine.
