Power Up Your Partnerships

Presented by:

Brad King

Director, Regulatory & Healthcare Compliance
Kowa Pharmaceuticals America, Inc.

True vendor partnerships are essential for organizations because they can drive value, efficiency, and innovation. In our case, vendors must provide compliance expertise in overseeing drug sample transactions related to PDMA drug sample accountability.

A trustworthy vendor partnership can differentiate a thriving, successful compliance program from one that fails due to ineffective resource utilization.

Effectively managing metrics is crucial for measuring success and enhancing performance. Understanding what success looks like and what practices are most effective is vital to building and managing effective vendor relationships.

When issues arise, having a Corrective and Preventive Action Process (CAPA) is critical to improving processes, ensuring that problems are addressed, and preventing them from reoccurring.

Join us for "Power Up Your Partnerships," where you'll gain valuable insights and effective strategies for optimizing vendor relationships.

We all have questions from time to time, especially when collaborating with third-party vendors. Knowing the best practices for addressing these questions ensures you receive clear, effective responses. We encourage you to bring your questions to this session, and we'll do our best to address them.

Strengthen your organization with the power of effective vendor partnerships!
