Delivering pharmaceutical samples directly to DTRs is more than a simple “shipping” process. It’s an end-to-end workflow that demands careful coordination, compliance oversight, and consistent visibility. When multiple stakeholders and timelines are involved, operations can face recurring challenges that make it harder to maintain traceability and ensure product integrity.

In this session, our distinguished presenters will examine some of the most common challenges in white glove sample distribution, from breakdowns in handoffs to gaps in tracking and documentation. They’ll discuss practical approaches and proven solutions to improve delivery success, safeguard product integrity, and strengthen customer satisfaction.

Join us there to discover actionable ways to enhance your organization’s approach to DTR sample delivery.
